BEER

We have been unwilling even in these days of the high cost of all materials used in brewing to sacrifice anything in the quality of the materials which we use for the purpose of saving in expense.

The constantly increasing Harvard Beer clientele and the pleasing words of commendation coming constantly to us demonstrate that our course in addition to being pleasing to us as a matter of principle is also a sound business policy.

Worthy Portraits

THE sort that need no explanation, no apologies. That will not annoy you in later years by their lack of artistic sense. No one tires of a Sir Joshua Reynolds because it is ALWAYS RIGHT. The principles of art and sense and taste are permanent. It takes something more than a camera and a plate to make portraits that live. Wisdom says, "Go to Purdy," and art indorses

One of the Best Located Stores in Boston

For the Convenience of Holiday Shoppers

WHEN the Holiday crowds begin to appear and you desire to make your selections in a roomy store, which is easy of access, visit ours and save the many inconveniences of the narrow sidewalk congested district.

There has not enough been said in praise of Tremont Street as being the finest in Boston for retail shopping. Bostonians have become so accustomed to narrow sidewalks that compel them to walk in the streets amongst the horses, wagons and automobiles that they fail to sufficiently appreciate their finest shopping street. Tremont Street, from our store on the one side and the Parker House on the other, to the Hotel Touraine, a distance of a short half mile, is what is considered by residents of other large cities as the finest Shopping Section in the city of Boston.

The advantages offered by our store to the Holiday Shopper are many, and we feel that we are very fortunately located as far as the convenience of our patrons is concerned, located as it is midway between two of the largest subway stations in the city, and but a short distance from either one. From the Park Street Station, opposite Winter Street, it can be reached by one of the widest sidewalks in Boston.

We are also conveniently located for automobile trade. Our Beacon and Somerset Street entrance can be reached without encountering any of the delays or dangers of the congested section.

NEXT ATTRACTION

"THE 13th CHAIR"

Invested with the prestige which it acquired during a solid year's run in New York, "The 13th Chair," William Harris, Jr.'s production of Bayard Veiller's melodrama of mystery, will come to Boston at the Hollis St. Theatre for an engagement beginning Christmas Night, December 25. Out of the scores of theatrical offerings made each season in New York a few—just a few—invariably stand out as unusual successes and one or two as veritable triumphs. During the past season "The 13th Chair," made a place for itself at the very head of the list. When other plays staged at about the same time had long since forsaken Broadway for a tour of other cities, this piece of Bayard Veiller continued to crowd the theatre at which it was the attraction. Changes of season had no effect upon its popularity—the house was crowded in mid-summer as well as during Christmas week—nor did other troublesome influences have any effect upon its staying qualities. Which meant and was accepted without question as an assurance of exceptional merit.

That its long run in New York was justified will be amply proven by its engagement here, for it is safe to say that no other theatrical announcement to be made this season—or that has been made for several seasons past—will awaken such wide interest as that of the approach of this very unusual success. Bayard Veiller also wrote "Within the Law" which until now has been regarded as the most emphatic stage triumph of this generation. Now in "The 13th Chair" Veiller has veritably outdone himself, for his new piece is an even greater popular success than the first.

The N. Y. cast comes to the Hollis in "The 13th Chair." At the head of which is Margaret Wycherly and among its members who are almost as well known are Harrison Hunter, George Graham, Eva Condon, Eilene Van Biene, Gertrude Dalton, Sarah Whiteford, Bruce Elmore, Perce Benton, A. T. Hendon, Martha Mayo and Charles Laite.

PRAY'S ELEVENTH ANNUAL

25% Discount Sale of Oriental Rugs

Including Virtually Our Entire Tremendous Stock

Two Reasons why we make this offer at this time, when Oriental Rugs are so scarce and hence more valuable every day: First, to keep faith with the public who have looked forward to this sale every year for a decade. Second, fittingly to crown our centennial anniversary.

One-Fourth Less Than Regular Marked Prices

AN INSIDE VIEW—We wish our friends to view this event "from the inside out." In a word, we cannot go into the market and purchase such rugs at prices as low as here offered, and many of these rugs cannot be duplicated at any price.

EXCEPTIONS—The only rugs excepted from this sale are a few special ones, those already reduced in price and our collection of Antique Rugs, brought together a rug at a time, representing the labor of years and the expenditure of a large sum of money.

NOTE—If you are building a residence, and desire to take advantage of these prices, we will hold rugs a reasonable time and invoice on delivery.

Special Notice The attention of our patrons is respectfully called to the new passageway under Boylston Street, connecting the entire Subway system with the Little Building, and thus affording a safe method of crossing Boylston Street to our theatres, avoiding the dangers from traffic at the corner of Boylston and Tremont Streets and affording protection in stormy weather.

TO LADY PATRONS—The established rule at the Hollis St. Theatre requiring ladies to remove their hats, bonnets or other head-dress while witnessing the performance applies to all parts of the auditorium, including the boxes and loges. It is essential to the comfort and convenience of our patrons in general that this rule be strictly enforced.

Ladies who are unwilling or unable to conform to the rule are earnestly requested to leave the theatre without delay, and to receive the price of their tickets at the Box Office.

The Steinway, Steinert, Jewett, and Woodbury Pianos used at this Theatre exclusively are furnished by M. Steinert & Sons Co., Steinert Hall, 162 Boylston Street.

The Theatre of Fur Fashion

A YEAR ago we announced the merger of the long established concern of Balch, Price & Co., Brooklyn, with Lamson & Hubbard, Boston. To-day, this organization is acknowledged to be the greatest retailing and manufacturing Furriers in America.

These two well-known houses have always maintained close and cordial relations with their customers. The reputation of each concern has been built on the basis of Absolute Reliability, Supreme Quality and Exclusive Style.

Their Prestige is your protection.

The fur trading posts of this Company extend throughout far Northern Canada. We also receive direct from trappers and collectors in all the other great fur-producing sections of the world. In fact, we have at all times the pick of the finest pelts,

Our factories, constructed according to the newest scientific and sanitary principles, are accepted as standard throughout the fur business.

In every detail of the production of fur apparel—from the choosing and matching of the skins to the final finishing touches, only the highest type of workmanship and the choicest of materials are used.

Added to the Reliability of our Furs and the Economy of our Prices, is our Acknowledged Leadership in Fur Fashions, due to the fact that, being the foremost Furriers in the United States, we maintain an Extensive Corps of Designers and Stylists impossible to small organizations.

This "Theatre of Fur Fashion" has come to be accepted as the Standard American Annual On Fur Styles. It pictures and describes the newest and most authentic fashions for 1917-1918.
